

WINNSBORO, S. C.

WEDNESDAY, April 23, 1884.

J. S. A. DOUGLASS, EDITOR.

RECEIVED has gone "dry" by a vote of 59 to 41. A wonder!

Governor Hoadly, of Ohio, thinks it would be unwise to tamper with the tariff this year.

Herbert Spencer's health is failing and he has been advised to take a long trip abroad.

The New York Republican delegation to the National Convention stands seven for Blaine and sixteen for Arthur.

There seems to be quite a difference of opinion among the London dailies about Mr. Lawrence Barrett's recent rendition of "Yorick's Love" in that city.

The Augusta Chronicle says: "Col. Cash is said to be in Canada. What does the News and Courier think of 'Bloody Bogan' seeking the protection of the British flag?"

Secretary Lincoln says he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. Judging from his reticence, it would be safe to say that he is secretly ambitious to occupy the seat once filled by his father.

W. D. KELLEY, the leading protectionist in the National House of Representatives, bears the title of "Fath-e-r", from being the longest in continued service in that body. He completed his seventeenth year on last Saturday.

Of the six delegates at large elected to represent the State of Pennsylvania in the National Convention only two, it is said, are sincere Blaine men, and of the remaining four, two were chosen in the face of a distinct refusal to pledge themselves in favor of any particular candidate.

The indications at present are that President Arthur will at least make a first-class run before the Republican National Convention for the Presidential nomination of his party. Arthur has made a first-rate ordinary President, and little that would be seriously damaging could be charged against his administration.

General Joseph E. Johnston is reported as saying: "The South will not adopt the free-trade ideas of Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison and Watterson. The Democratic party has no leader, and ought to be ashamed of itself on general principles. In fact it ought to dissolve and unite with other parties which have some principles in common."

The mania for high buildings in New York continues to excite the opposition of the firemen, in consequence of the additional risks devolved on them. A strong memorial has gone to the Legislature, unanimously signed by that class, in favor of the bill now pending to that body restricting the construction of edifices beyond a certain height.

The New York Herald, commenting upon the probable fate of the Morrison Bill and the duty of the House of Representatives to pass it, says: "In refusing fifteen per cent. reduction, the protectionists may in time themselves be compelled to accept reductions of fifty and even one hundred per cent. We hope the day will come and speedily too. It will be the beginning of our Augustan era."

From a publisher's standpoint, says Mr. Haskell, the publisher of Mr. Blaine's book, "it is the most remarkable book, after the Bible, of this century. The first copies are not yet bound, and we are at work upon the second 200,000 copies." When asked what other book had so large a sale, he said: "None other, that I know of, except the Bible. I published 400,000 Bibles at one time, but with this book I am certain of selling 2,000,000; I mean 1,000,000 copies of each volume."

The News and Courier publishes specials from all parts of this State where starvation was reported to exist, which utterly disprove the statements made. The dispatches cover the counties of Aiken, Barnwell, Hampton, Beaufort, Orangeburg, Colleton and Marion. They come from well informed correspondents and show that there is absolutely no distress in any part of the reported districts. Provisions are scarce, and money is equally so, but these difficulties produce none of the dreadful results portrayed in recent sensational letters to Northern newspapers.

In reply to the charge of the Atlanta Constitution that Watterson was a "cowardly dodger" during the war, the Nashville American says that, although Watterson was physically incapacitated for active service, he was neither a coward nor a dodger during the war, that he was frequently under fire and stood the ordeal creditably, and that on one occasion, by consent of General Joseph E. Johnston, he went on an expedition alone, as an amateur or volunteer scout, and made the entire circuit of Sherman's army, returning to headquarters and making his report.

A Washington dispatch to the New York World says that "there has been a strong drift of Democratic sentiment during the last fortnight toward Senator Bayard. If the revenue reform people control the Chicago Convention Bayard is now considered as a very available candidate. His pure record and high character are admitted even by his enemies. He has another advantage. He is a poor man. One observer, in speaking of this point, said: 'I think it would be a good thing to nominate a poor man. It would be easier to collect money for Bayard than it would be for a man who represents merely a barrel."

The Columbia Register of the 14th inst. says: "A few moments previous to the adjournment of the Common Pleas Court yesterday afternoon Andrew Crawford, Esq., and P. L. Melton, Esq., quietly withdrew from the courtroom to one of the private rooms immediately to the rear. Presently a report came in that a fight was in progress in the room which the two gentlemen had withdrawn, and there was a rush of court attendants to the scene of conflict, when the combatants were separated. The origin of the difficulty was words passed in the courtroom during and after gument in a suit. Both gentlemen bear marks of the encounter."

TIMOS L. SHIELDS, the murderer of Joseph G. Sitton, who was tried and convicted of murder at the last term of the Superior Court at Charlotte, N. C., some days ago, effected an escape by the assistance of a half dozen or more of his friends. A hole of considerable size was dug in the wall, through which the unknown party passed to Shields cell, which was promptly opened and the prisoner was set at liberty. Shields has, however, been recaptured, and the wretch is again within the prison walls. His case is now pending in the North Carolina Supreme Court, and the impression in that State is that he will be granted a new trial.

COLONEL INGERSOLL has been recently interviewed on the Presidential situation. When asked whether or not General Sherman would run well in the Southern States, he said: "I don't know, but we all know that he never did run when he was there. Then he left it to the South to do the running." Upon the subject of his preference among the leading Republicans, he said: "If I had the privilege of picking out the President, I would name John M. Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court. He comes from Kentucky. He is about fifty years of age, and is a man of bravery and ability." He says, however, that "Blaine, the Planned Knight, is having the ground swept just now, and his chances for securing the nomination are good."

During the Danville riot investigation, a few days since, Congressman J. S. Wise gave notice that an effort would be made during the sitting of the committee to produce evidence touching the moral character of Senator Vance, Geo. D. Wise and others, members of the committee. Senator Vance became much incensed at the proposed attack upon him and said: "It is unusual, sir, and it is damnable, and I defy the whole hell-fred crowd to assail my character here or anywhere else. I have never heard of such a proposition as carrying the war into the committee, and making war against the member of a committee who is simply doing his duty as appointed and required of him by the Senate of which he is a member. It is a threat, sir, which I despise and defy and condemn."

SENATOR VANCE never sees Henry Watterson without being reminded of a scene at the Democratic Convention of 1880. "In the evening, after the organization," he says, "I dropped into the room of the Committee on Resolutions. There were only two members present, Watterson and John P. Irish, of Iowa. The Kentuckian had a bottle of champagne at his elbow and Irish was fixed with a bottle of whiskey. They were sweating away over the platform. The pair, at this moment, illustrated the humor of politics. Here was a man from a State that could by no possibility be swayed from its Democracy by any issue, and the other from a commonwealth as tenaciously wedded to its Republican idols; and these two fellows were assiduously engaged in constructing a platform to carry the doubtful States."

The News and Courier of the 14th inst., gives a list of the newspapers in the State in favor of State nominations at the approaching convention in June. The newspapers that are opposed to making nominations in June are: Carolina Spartan, Camden Journal, Kershaw Gazette, Koonce Courier, Port Royal Post, Aiken Journal and Review, Barnwell Sentinel, Newberry News, Newberry Observer, Chester Reporter, Aiken Recorder, Abbeville Medium, Laurensville Herald. The newspapers that are in favor of making the nominations in June are: Georgetown Times, Edgefield Chronicle, Georgetown Enquirer, Darlington News, Winnsboro News and Herald. The newspapers that have no special preference, or are willing to leave the matter to the State Convention are: Union Times, Barnwell People, Lancaster Ledger, Rock Hill Herald.

CHAIRMAN MORTIMER, of the ways and means committee, promises to call up his tariff bill during the present week. A lively fight is anticipated. It is as yet impossible to predict with any degree of certainty what will be its fate when fairly placed in the clutches of our Congressmen. If all the Democratic members had enough backbone to stand by the utterances of the National Democratic party on the subject, it would be no difficult matter to foreshadow the result. But as it is, united party action is out of the question, and it is possible that the no-tariff agitation Democrats will form a coalition with the Republicans and defeat the Morrison bill. We hope not. Surely a sufficient number of Democrats in all that body can be found who will, when the occasion presents itself, prove true to the party and its tenets. The latest intelligence is to the effect that a vote has been taken upon the consideration of the bill and the count showed 140 to 138 for consideration.

BLAINE'S CANDIDACY. The New York Herald says of Mr. Blaine's candidacy for the Presidency: "We have no idea that the Republican convention will think seriously of nominating Mr. James G. Blaine. The fuss made about him is absurd; those who make it seem to believe that the Republican party has neither conscience, memory or sense of decency—he is an impossible candidate."

The New York Evening Post is equally severe on the Planned Knight and his Presidential aspirations. Its utterances are weighty and significant in view of the fact that it is a strong, orthodox Republican daily. It says: "Mr. Blaine's reappearance as a candidate for the highest office in the government, or any other, is an audacious proceeding. The Post does not wish to see its party burdened with the hopeless task next summer of white washing its candidate. That task would be not merely hopeless; it would make the party ridiculous and ensure its dishonorable defeat."

The Evening Post, in addition to the above, gives its readers a brief memoir of Mr. Blaine's "unsavory career," and upon it preaches a sermon to the Republican party. The picture is doubtless over colored, for we have little doubt but that Blaine's course of conduct is fully as good as the bulk of Republican politicians. As a man of culture, as a party leader, as a statesman, it would be safe to say that James G. Blaine is to-day the peer of any man within the rank and file of the Republican party. He is the truest exponent of the tenets and precepts of his party, and we hope the Republican National Convention will be frank and honest enough to make him its standard-bearer in the approaching campaign.

On Friday morning last, in the United States Court sitting in Charleston, District Attorney Melton made a motion to strike from the docket all the cases charging violation of the election laws of the United States. The motion was granted and all the cases were stricken from the docket. In making the motion, Mr. Melton reviewed the history of the cases. He stated that when he had come into office he found about two hundred cases on the docket. Realizing that all could not be tried, he had obtained permission from the Department of Justice to select the most serious and discontinue the others. The cases so selected were worked up by Special Agent Sanders, appointed for the purpose. The result of the trials was one conviction and one plea of guilty, the other cases resulting in mistrials. At the last term cases arising under the new State election law whereby State and National elections are kept separate were alone tried—his desire being to avoid even the appearance of making inquiry into the conduct of the election of State officers. These trials had again resulted in mistrials. Being thoroughly convinced that in the present state of public sentiment convictions were impossible in these cases, he had so informed Mr. Brewster, and had received from him a letter dated March 15th last, directing him to exercise his discretion in the matter. Under this authority he moved that the cases be discontinued.

Judge Bond, without comment, immediately ordered the clerk to strike all the election cases from the docket. Ex-Judge Magrath, who was general counsel for the accused in all the election cases, rose and denied very emphatically that convictions had failed to be secured in consequence of the influence of public sentiment. He asserted that the failure was because in the cases produced by the District Attorney for trial there has not been sufficient evidence upon which to base conviction, even had the Judge been sitting alone without a jury.

This action of the United States authorities puts an end to the prosecutions which have had no result but that of needlessly harassing our people. It would have been more creditable to the government had its representatives reached this conclusion before they exhausted their ingenuity in the effort to pack the juries with creatures who, it was believed, would convict the defendants as well without as with evidence against them. But "all's well that ends well," and we congratulate the good people of the State upon the result.

The Republican congressional convention held in New York city Saturday night, the sixth district sends anti-Arthur men; the seventh for Blaine; the ninth Arthur men; the tenth Arthur men; the eleventh divided between Arthur and Blaine; the twelfth and thirteenth Arthur men.

Reports from nearly twenty Republican county conventions held in Kansas on Saturday to choose delegates to congressional district and State conventions, to be held next week to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago, show that whenever Presidential preference was expressed, they were generally for Blaine and Lincoln although Logan has many friends.

Jonathan Norcross, the head light of the white Republican movement in Georgia, has written a letter to the Atlanta Constitution in which he says that the plan for separate white and colored political organizations seems to take well with the colored voters. In its adoption we can, he says, in his opinion, get rid of political tramps and bunners, and relieve to a great extent our State of floating and vagrant voters, which are a curse to any community.

Another Rescue from Death. In 1881, while sewing on a machine, my wife was taken with a severe pain in her side, which was soon followed by hemorrhages from her lungs, severe cough, fever and she could neither eat nor sleep, and in a few weeks she was reduced to a living skeleton. Her stomach refused to retain any food and the physician thought one of her lungs was entirely gone. At a final consultation of two physicians her case was pronounced hopeless. I tried Brewer's Lung Restorer by advice of one of the physicians and she began to improve after the third dose. She continued the medicine and is now in excellent health, and is better than she has been in several years. I believe Brewer's Lung Restorer saved her life. BENJ. F. HEARDON, Yatesville, Ga.

SWEEP INTO THE STREAM.

One Thousand Acres of Land and "Right Smart of Bears."

On the deck of a big Mississippi steamboat stood an aged Southern planter. Indicating by a sweep of his arm the waters that were passing over, he said to a passenger from the North: "When I was twelve years old I killed my first bear on a plantation my father was then cutting out of a forest that grew directly over the waters of this bend. That was a mighty good plantation, and there was right smart of bears there, too. But that one thousand acres of land went into the Mississippi years ago."

It is putting no strain upon the figure to say that great forests of youthful hope, womanly beauty and manly strength are swept in the same way every year into the great, turbid torrent of disease and death. Yet it should not be so. That it is so is a disgrace as well as a loss. People are largely too careless or too stupid to defend their own interests—the most precious of which is health. That gone, all is gone. Disease is simple, but to recklessness or ignorance the simplest things might as well be complex as a proposition in Conic Sections. As the huge western rivers, which so often flood the cities along their shores, arise in a few mountain springs, so all our ailments can be traced to impure blood and a small group of disordered organs. The most effective and inclusive remedy for disease is PARKER'S TONIC. It goes to the sources of pain and weakness. In response to its action, the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels begin their work afresh, and disease is driven out. The Tonic is not, however, an intoxicant, but cures a desire for strong drink. It cures indigestion, rheumatism or troubles which have refused to yield to other agents? Here is your help. (ADV.)

A FEW WORDS FROM

A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN OF MACON.

In August, 1881, nearly three years ago my son, who was at that time living at Clinton, Ga., came over to see me with the sad intelligence that his wife was in the last stages of consumption, and that her physician had pronounced her case hopeless. I went immediately over, and I felt that nothing could be done. She was coughing and spitting incessantly, and at times would discharge from her lungs a large quantity of pus or matter—could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and was, in fact, in the last stages of the disease. This was about the time you began to advertise Brewer's Lung Restorer, and as my son expressed a desire to give it to his wife, two or three bottles were procured and with scarcely a vestige of hope we commenced giving it to her in small doses, gradually increasing the quantity until the prescribed dose was reached. She began to improve after a few doses and continued to do so, until she was finally restored to life and health, and is to-day perhaps in better health than ever before. She is subject to colds, but a few swallows of Brewer's Lung Restorer (which she never without) relieve her immediately. I consider her restoration to perfect health a miracle, for which she is indebted to Brewer's Lung Restorer. My son is almost a monomaniac on the subject of Brewer's Lung Restorer and never lets an opportunity pass where he thinks such a medicine would be required, that he does not speak of it in most glowing terms. Not long since a Northern gentleman on his way to Florida heard of this cure and was induced by my son to give it to his invalid wife, and she was cured as if by magic.

Mr. Charles Eden, of Trinidad, Colorado, says: Seeing certificates of the wonderful cures made by Brewer's Lung Restorer, I was induced to try it on my little son, who was troubled with lung or throat affection, pronounced by one physician, consumption. It acted wonderfully on him, and by the time he had taken one bottle of it the cough disappeared. I am now on a visit to my parents in Georgia, but will return in a few days to my home and will certainly take some of the Lung Restorer with me.
